Gamora will quickly spring into action and chase after your enemy, telling you not to follow her. Once you arrive on board the Grand Unifier's ship in Chapter 8 - The Matriarch, you'll be forced to walk behind the man himself, Raker, while he talks about their plans. Since Lady Hellbender collects ferocious beasts, you'll have to decide which of your team to "sell" to claim a reward, but the team is split: You may choose to Sell Groot, or Sell RocketYou'll have the opportunity to revisit this decision near the end of the chapter, but once Chapter 4 begins you won't be able to change your decision. To avoid major spoilers, we're not including any info or images here. Open the spoiler tab below for a brief description, and please see our full walkthrough of Chapter 15 - Broken Promises for more info. After you arrive at the World Mind that leads the Nova Corps in Chapter 9 - Desperate Times, you will have a long cutscene to try and convince the Celestial Sentient Supercomputer to help fight the new growing threat that the cult represents. You can choose to pay the fine in full, or reject paying the fine entirely.In Chapter 12 - Knowhere to Run, you'll need to save Cosmo from a squad of attacking enemies. At the start of Chapter 13 - Against All Odds, you can choose follow Drax in singing a Katathain battle anthem advertisementTo avoid major spoilers, we're not including any info or images here. Marvel's Guardians of the Galaxy: The Game is a single-player game with many role-playing elements, and as you take control of Star Lord, you'll be able to choose many different dialogue options when bantering with your team, negotiating with enemies, and talking your way out of (or intro) trouble. This isn't necessarily a major choice, but it can lead to a fun interaction with the team. You may choose whether or not to buy the disabler.advertisementIn Chapter 8 - The Matriarch, you will get an in-depth look at your main adversaries, and will have the opportunity to make some key decisions as the story progresses. It is important to note that regardless of any choice you make in this game, the story of the Guardians of the Galaxy game has one main ending (and a few failed states), meaning all paths will always converge at a single point.Below you will find a list of major choices as they presented in each chapter, with a spoiler tag for the possible results and consequences of your decision. Some of these may spoil major story moments, so view them at your own risk.In Chapter 2 - Busted, you will have two major choices you will need to make as you are arrested by the Nova Corps. You may choose to put the helmet down or speak into the helmet.Though Chapter 6 - Between a Rock and a Hard Place is a chapter mostly filled with exploration, there is one important choice you can make here. advertisementFor the most part, much of the dialogue choices featured in the Guardians of the Galaxy game are for backstory, worldbuilding, and roleplaying purposes only. You can tell most dialogue won't have any major impact if you see Star Lord's icon pop up along the bottom of the screen, prompting one of two responses - or to remain silent. Your arrival in Knowhere during Chapter 6 - Between a Rock and a Hard Place will give you the opportunity to explore its marketplace and assorted points of interest - but there is one entirely optional and easily missed encounter at a bar with someone who claims to know you - you can read more about the scene and how to trigger it here.advertisement You must correctly guess two sets of song lyrics given by LiplessIf you're looking for a fun item to collect you can buy a Disabler for 1500 units from the Junk Dealer on the left side of Knowhere. You may let Drax toss Rocket, or Defend RocketadvertisementChapter 5 - Due or Die involves returning to the Nova Corps to pay your fine. You can pick any of the dialogue choices while Raker is giving his monologues, or let the options time outadvertisementSoon after this scene, you'll meet the Matriarch, who will show you the promise of a world where your loved ones are brought back. This isn't really a major choice, but it is a fun interaction that can be easily missed. This means they don't actually have any impact on the game besides hearing different responses or playing Star Lord in a certain way. In both scenarios, Drax will make a move to toss Rocket across the gap to extend the bridge for you. In these situations, your response is mandatory and cannot be timed out. However, there are certain situations when your choices will actually effect how other characters will behave later in the story - or whether you have something to gain or lose. Not all inconsequential choices follow this rule, but most do. advertisementAt two points in your exploration of the planet during the chapter, you will come to large chasms with a bridge on the other side. Once you step onto the moving platform, Rocket will tell you to distract the Grand Unifier while he goes to work on hacking his drone. advertisement You can help Cosmo snap out of the promise, or you can fail to do so. The consequences of these choices can range from a specific chapter playing out markedly different, or adding or removing a certain degree of puzzle-solving or combat difficulty. You can let her run off on her own, or try to follow in her footsteps by taking the path on the left.advertisementIn Chapter 9 - Desperate Times, you will meet with the World Mind, and one one major scene to apply a major decision if you answer correctly. As you arrive on the planet ruled by Lady Hellbender in Chapter 3 - The Cost of Freedom, you'll have a team meeting to decide how to get money to pay off your fine. You will have three dialogue sections to choose answers to help convince the World MindadvertisementAfter the World Mind leaves, you'll be prompted to look at a console that displays the fine you have yet to pay. Depending on your choice in Chapter 2, the fine will vary in its amount - and depending on how much money you spent in Knowhere, you may have the money to pay it off. You'll then discover that he's been consumed by the Promise. You may choose to hide the Llama, or hide the techLater in Chapter 2, after meeting Nikki and Ko-rel, you'll ride an elevator while being interrogated, and Ko-rel will demand to know how Nikki was able to get around secure areas. You can resist the hug as it starts to damage you, or embrace the promise and not react at allLater in the chapter, you'll have to fight your way towards escaping the giant ship, but not before Gamora spots Grand Unifer Raker ushering the Matriarch along the walkway. About halfway through the chapter you'll find a Nova Corps helmet. Peter will have the opportunity to save his mother, who pulls him into a tight hug. You may choose to Divert Attention, Tell Ko-rel the Truth, or Take the BlameadvertisementIn Chapter 3 - The Cost of Freedom, you will be tasked with making up to three important choices as you arrive on the planet ruled by Lady Hellbender. Though not major, this is a choice that can increase the amount of fights you'll encounter in Chapter 5. This page contains all the known major dialogue choices and consequences you can encounter in the game. Open the spoiler tab below for a brief description, and please see our full walkthrough of Chapter 16 - Magus. advertisementIn the beginning of Chapter 2 - Busted, the guardians will be caught by the Nova Corps and detained, and you will learn that you are in possession of both an illegal animal found in the Quarantine Zone, and a bunch of illegal tech that Rocket has amassed.
